Over 500 Delegates From All Parts of State Assemble at White Plains—Former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills and Chairman Macy Among Speakers—The "Political Credo" and Program.

Goal of $7,000 Is in Sight As Work Cheered by Contributors, Make Final Effort Today To Pass Mark Set.

There was another very enthusiastic and encouraging meeting of the workers in the drive for $7,000 for next year's budget of the Y. W. C. A. at the association building Friday evening. There was no cause for discouragement in the fact that almost $4,000 of the $7,000 needed was in hand last evening, early. The workers not only had Friday evening in which to work, but today they were out on what is known in drive parlance as a "Free For All" soliciting campaign.

There were several good speakers last evening. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Lucas Boeve, pastor of The First Reformed Church. School Superintendent Van Ingen was the first speaker, linking the Y. W. C. A. in many ways to a good investment proposition. The dividends on the investment of young lives helped were not paid yearly, or semi-yearly or quarterly or monthly but daily, almost hourly as shown in the reports of a year's activities in which an attendance of 24,000 girls and young women had come through the doors of the Y. W. C. A. and gone out into the world better for their contacts there. The speaker was sure that the people of Kingston would not be willing to close those doors, would even sacrifice in order to keep those Y. W. doors swinging open to girls in the immediate future especially when there is increased leisure and unemployment.

The next speaker was Roger Loughran, a former Kingston boy, who having been away from Kingston for some years was back again, and welcomed back by Mrs. Rice in her introduction. Admitting the worthiness of the cause, Mr. Loughran spoke for the most part on the division of labor in the campaign and of enthusiasm.

The division of labor laid between the workers who were going out to secure the funds for the Y. W. budget for next year and those to whom they would go and whose opportunity it would be to give something, however little and as much as was possible in each instance to maintain this wonderful organization at its highest efficiency in the community. Their enthusiasm must not dwindle after leaving the meeting but must continue unabated to the end, for they would not only be gaining financial aid for the Y. W., but they would be educating the community in knowledge of what wonderful character building the Y. W. was doing.

William C. Kingman was the last speaker and Mr. Kingman always lights up the meetings by the cheerfulness of his remarks, the wit with which he points his advice and his encouragement. He left the workers just keen to get out and accomplish much more before the evening's work was done.

There was much enthusiasm over the reports turned in as follows, and there was a persistent rumor about that there would be several substantial gifts turned in today.

The last meeting will occur this evening with the final supper at 6 o'clock.

The following ladies of the First Presbyterian Church served the supper: Mrs. Jessie DuBois, Mrs. Meekern and Mrs. Evans, assisted by Hi-Y Girls.

FISH FAVORS GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF MUNITIONS

Glens Falls, N. Y., May 19 (P)—Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., favors government ownership of munition plants "to take the profit out of war."

Speaking at the annual convention of Rotary International, 22nd district, last night, he suggested this as one means to help prevent war. "If I were to make any change in the profit system, I would take the profit out of war," he declared.

He also proposed the conscription of all wealth and labor by the government in time of war for the duration of the war. He said he saw no war clouds over America at the present time, but favored "adequate defense".

Representative Fish said he believed Congress was willing to give President Roosevelt power to enter a charge of having assaulted Special Agent George H. Van Aken of the town of Waukesha on the night of August 11, last year.

Interesting Reports Chinese Say British At Program Planning Stand Invites Japan Home Bureau Meeting To Bite Another Chunk

Tuberculosis Nurse Gives Talk in Connection with Plans For Child Guidance—History of Home Bureau in Ulster County Given by Mrs. J. P. Searing.

Those attending the annual program planning meeting of the Home Bureau took time from their exceedingly interesting sessions on Friday morning at the First Reformed Church chapel to enjoy a luncheon prepared by the Henrietta Wynkoop Guild. The tables were cheerful, decorated with lilacs, tulips and potted hydrangeas. The flowers later were placed in the window sills and a good luncheon was served with dispatch.

Mrs. Lewis called on Mrs. Eppes to lead the women in the recital of the Home Bureau Creed. From time to time during the luncheon Mrs. Lewis called upon chairmen of different units for annual reports of their Home Bureau activities. The reports told of an astonishing number of activities that will help in better home-making, home-beautifying, food projects, landscaping, crafts, welfare work, starting libraries and spreading that idea, dramatics, with several others.

There was one project that seemed most unusual and even interesting to the men of the family. It was "Modern House Cleaning," and was very popular.

The units that reported during the luncheon were Wallkill, Shokan, Shandaken, Napanoch, Modena, Milton, Kingston, High Falls, Lomontville, Flatbush, Ashby, Accord.

After the reading of the reports from the various units, Mrs. Lewis called upon Mrs. William A. Warren to read a letter which she knew all present would be interested in. Mrs. Warren prefaced the reading of the letter by stating that when she attended the meeting of Federated Home Bureaus at Syracuse she met Mrs. Nellie F. Conant, vice-chairman of the Council of Farm Women of the World. She afterward wrote Mrs. Conant inviting her to come to Kingston and be present for the meeting now in progress. Mrs. Warren then read the letter from Mrs. Conant, written in Paris, in which the writer said that she would not be returning to America until fall. She sent greetings to the women of the Ulster County Home Bureau and greatly regretted that she could not be their guest on the occasion which she knew she would greatly enjoy.

There was one announcement made and that was to the effect that the Accord unit would meet at Kenyon Farms, one mile this side of Accord on the afternoon of May 25 from 1:30 to 4:30 o'clock, standard time. The chairman of the Accord unit extended a cordial invitation to all present to meet with them at the lovely old home and enjoy games, and the sociability.

Mrs. Lewis then turned the meeting over to Miss Nance, the County Home Bureau manager, who is so popular with all of the Home Bureau members, for the planning of the program of work for the coming year. This is a more or less difficult task if every community is to have the activities that will be the most valuable to that community.

Occasionally during this program making process, addresses were interspersed and the first one, not only created an enormous amount of interest, but greatly influenced the remainder of the program making.

Tuberculosis Nurse Talks

The speaker was Miss Katherine Murphy, the Ulster county tuberculosis nurse, who was called upon in connection with the plans for child guidance work next year.

Miss Murphy said that she was not only glad of the opportunity to speak to the women of the county on the subject of the testing of our school children in connection with the tuberculosis situation in the county. Miss Murphy reminded those present that Ulster county has one of the highest death rates from tuberculosis in the state. Soon after Dr. Holcomb, head of the Tuberculosis Hospital, began the work of interesting the school authorities in the matter of tuberculin testing of the school children both for their own sakes and to find possible sources of infection, the work has gone on with leaps and bounds. At the beginning of tuberculin work in Ulster county the death rate was 55.5 to a thousand, now it has come down to 7.6, according to a report from Dr. Plunkett two weeks ago.

At the present time there are in our wonderful new tuberculosis hospital 56 patients, for the most part advanced cases. Had the tuberculin testing begun long ago the decrease

Rumor Says Darrow May Defend Insull

Chicago, May 19 (P)—Out of retirement may come Clarence Darrow, master courtroom strategist, to defend a client once as foremost as the attorney himself—Samuel Insull.

Rumor persisted that the 77-year old criminal lawyer would be asked to defend the deposed utilities magnate against charges of mail fraud, bankruptcy law evasion, and embezzlement, but the only comment last night from Insull's son, Samuel Jr., was:

"My father and I have reached no decision. We are considering all available attorneys. To that extent we are considering Clarence Darrow."

Should the prospect defending such a figure lure him again into practice, it would be Darrow's first courtroom appearance in this capacity since the famous Massey case in Honolulu.

Austrian Tensity Felt In Terrorism of Exploding Bombs

Vienna, May 19 (P)—Terroristic explosions which rocked Austria during the night cracked out a warning of the extreme tenseness in the country's situation.

In Salzburg, where explosions appear to have been most numerous many were reported injured. A number of families, in a panic as a result of the bombings, were packing up for flight from the city "till things quiet down".

The most powerful bomb which struck Salzburg, landed in the lobby of the festival playhouse, shattering windows in the theatre as well as in the adjoining houses.

This blast was but a prelude to a terrifying barrage of incendiary bombs which went off in all sections of the city. Adding to the confusion, the electric light was cut off for half an hour.

After midnight bombs damaged two railway lines in the province of Salzburg, one the Babisch line, and the other near Mariahilf.

Other railway bombings damaged lines in the Tyrol disorganizing the train schedules. Forty miles from Vienna, near St. Pölten, a railway bridge was dynamited, temporarily disrupting the service on the main line.

BEER WILL FLOW AGAIN IN SMALLER EATING PLACES

Albany, N. Y., May 19 (P)—Beer will flow again on July 1 in the smaller eating places—lunch counters, luncheonettes, dining car wagons, hot dog stands and the like—in New York state.

Officials of the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board estimated today that approximately 25,000 more establishments will apply for beer permits under the more liberal effective July 1, which does not make table accommodations mandatory for beer dispensing.

At present there are about 48,000 beer licenses in the state, limited under the law to six types of establishments—hotels, clubs, beer gardens, ships, trains and restaurants with table accommodations for at least 20 persons.

Smaller eating places which had always regarded themselves as restaurants were prohibited from obtaining licenses because they lacked tables.

The new law permits licenses to be issued to "such premises which are kept, used, maintained, advertised or held out to the public to be a place where food is prepared and served for consumption on the premises in such quantities as to satisfy the liquor authority that the sale of beer intended is incidental to and not the prime source of revenue from the operation of such premises."

King Boris Dissolves Parliament Today

Sofia, Bulgaria, May 19 (P)—King Boris, late this afternoon, signed a decree dissolving the Bulgarian parliament.

The king's action came shortly after he had approved a new government headed by Kirov Guerguiev, former minister of railways, as premier.

The new premier named a group of ministers, many of whom will fill two portfolios temporarily.

Even as the king dissolved parliament, rumors were circulating outside the country that he had been assassinated.

Saturday Society Review

Among the events that Kingstonians await eagerly each year are the garden fete that mark the beginning of the summer social season. The first, and as always one of the liveliest of these, will be a lawn party and supper held Tuesday afternoon and evening, May 22, at the Academy of St. Ursula, Marygrove.

The Mothers' Association, under whose auspices the fete is being held, has spared no effort in making this occasion as memorable as those of past years. Although the season is late, the garden is already lovely with its beds of colorful tulips, violas and bleeding pavonia, and it is here that tables will be set for the bridge and pinochle players who will gather at 2:30 o'clock for an afternoon of cards with their friends. In case of inclement weather, arrangements have been made for placing the tables indoors. Mrs. Charles Mullens, chairman, with Mrs. John N. Cordts, Jr., and Mrs. Abel Abernethy, co-chairmen, have charge of the tables for the afternoon. As usual there will be booths to attract and interest the guests. Here one will find for sale candy, cake, ice cream, chocolate milk, fancy articles and flowers. Those arranging for these features are Mrs. Francis Schilling and Mrs. John T. Murphy, co-chairmen of the candy booth; Mrs. Sidney Marks and Mrs. John Cuff, co-chairmen of the table where cake may be bought; Mrs. Christopher Tierney and Mrs. Frank Jenks, co-chairmen of the ice cream booth, and Mrs. C. L. Gannon, Mrs. Walter J. Miller, Jr., and Mrs. Harris Ingles, co-chairmen of the flower booth. There will also be a Wishing Well in charge of Mrs. Richard Dave and Mrs. John Healy as an attraction for the more youthful patrons.

Realizing that many of the guests may not be interested in cards, the Association has arranged for a three-act comedy, "Two Simpletons", to be presented by a group of the students of the Academy. This highly amusing farce on French manners, which was written by Madame De Segur of Paris for her own grandchildren, will be presented twice during the afternoon, at 2:30 and 4 o'clock. The play, which is of the last century, will be given with the French provincial costumes of the times. The members of the cast are the father, Miss Louise Kellman; mother, Miss Kathleen Quigley; two simpletons, Miss Dorothy Jones and Miss Joan Wilson; Parisian girls, Miss Bernice Nolan, Miss Genevieve Judge and Miss Marie Kellman; aunt of the simpletons, living in Paris, Miss Ruth Longauer; hostess in whose Paris home they make their debut, Miss Pauline Kellman; peasant nurse, Miss Frances Doyle; dressmaker, Miss Anna Marie Kellman; and tailor, Miss Virginia Jones.

Continuing a feature which became highly popular at former garden fêtes held by this organization, a delicious buffet supper will be served on the porch and lawns overlooking the convent gardens and Hudson river. This will be in charge of Mrs. John Weber and her co-chairman, Mrs. Frederic Holcomb. Again in the evening there will be cards beginning at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Leonard Kahn and Mrs. John Sangyn are co-chairman arranging for this part of the day's activities. Quite aside from the ample entertainment being provided by the various committees, it is expected that there will be many who will avail themselves of the opportunity of enjoying the companionship of their friends for a few hours during the afternoon and evening in this congenial and restful atmosphere.

The Ulster Garden Club will hold its second meeting of the month with Mrs. Herman A. Kelly at her home at St. Remy. The program provides for an outdoor meeting when the guests will visit Mrs. Kelley's lovely garden.

The Junior League met last Monday with Mrs. John N. Cordts, Jr., at her home on Lafayette avenue. After the regular business meeting, tea was served, Miss Florence Cordts pouring.

C., where they spent several days and attended the National Capital Horse Show at Bradley Farms with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Seaman of Chevy Chase.

On Monday Mrs. Gross entertained the members of the committee for the flower show to be held September 12 under the auspices of the Monday Guild of St. John's Church at luncheon at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The guests were Mrs. Joseph T. Garlan, Mrs. Louis Kegler, Mrs. Raymond Craft and Mrs. Parker Brinckerhoff. Mrs. Gross is chairman of the flower booth. There will also be a Wishing Well in charge of Mrs. Richard Dave and Mrs. John Healy as an attraction for the more youthful patrons.

Realizing that many of the guests may not be interested in cards, the Association has arranged for a three-act comedy, "Two Simpletons", to be presented by a group of the students of the Academy. This highly amusing farce on French manners, which was written by Madame De Segur of Paris for her own grandchildren, will be presented twice during the afternoon, at 2:30 and 4 o'clock. The play, which is of the last century, will be given with the French provincial costumes of the times. The members of the cast are the father, Miss Louise Kellman; mother, Miss Kathleen Quigley; two simpletons, Miss Dorothy Jones and Miss Joan Wilson; Parisian girls, Miss Bernice Nolan, Miss Genevieve Judge and Miss Marie Kellman; aunt of the simpletons, living in Paris, Miss Ruth Longauer; hostess in whose Paris home they make their debut, Miss Pauline Kellman; peasant nurse, Miss Frances Doyle; dressmaker, Miss Anna Marie Kellman; and tailor, Miss Virginia Jones.

Continuing a feature which became highly popular at former garden fêtes held by this organization, a delicious buffet supper will be served on the porch and lawns overlooking the convent gardens and Hudson river. This will be in charge of Mrs. John Weber and her co-chairman, Mrs. Frederic Holcomb. Again in the evening there will be cards beginning at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Leonard Kahn and Mrs. John Sangyn are co-chairman arranging for this part of the day's activities. Quite aside from the ample entertainment being provided by the various committees, it is expected that there will be many who will avail themselves of the opportunity of enjoying the companionship of their friends for a few hours during the afternoon and evening in this congenial and restful atmosphere.

The Ulster Garden Club will hold its second meeting of the month with Mrs. Herman A. Kelly at her home at St. Remy. The program provides for an outdoor meeting when the guests will visit Mrs. Kelley's lovely garden.

On Thursday afternoon Yama Farms Inn at Napanoch正式 opened its season with a benefit musical and tea for the memorial house fund of the Ulster County Historical Society. The artist was Miss Ethel Newcomb, pianist, who entertained the many guests with a delightfully informal hour of music. Opening her program with "Carnival," by Schumann, Miss Newcomb then requested that the guests themselves name the selections that they wished her to play. The first request was for Chopin's C Sharp Minor Scherzo, which was followed, as the enthusiasm of the audience increased, by Leeschetzky's "Two Sky Larks," Liszt's "Liebestraume" and selections from Debussy, Rachmaninoff, and a further group of Chopin's numbers. Miss Newcomb not only has a lovely and gracious personality, but was most generous in the number of her selections.

Following the musical, Mrs. Olive Sarre as hostess, had afternoon tea served at small tables in the dining room. There were more than a hundred guests from Ellenville, Kingston, New Paltz, Saugerties, Highland and other neighboring towns. Among those attending were Mrs. George Washburn, Mrs. Herman A. Flemming, Mrs. Birge Harrison, Mrs. Steiner, Mrs. Gordon Reel, Mrs. Eloise Lovatt, the Misses Rice and Poultney Bigelow. A further memory which the guests took with them upon their departure was that of the profusion of lilacs, rare and select varieties of which have been cultivated with care at Yama Farms.

On May 5 Miss Jeanne DeGarmo of 97 St. James street entertained in honor of her birthday. Her guests were Madeline, Muriel and Dorothy Smith, Anne and Jeanne Marie De La Vergne, Keri Rose, Judy Fesenden, Patricia Matthews, June Holley, Sally Oaks, Peggy and Phasy Lewis, Jean Richter, Mary Louise O'Gorman, Joan Flynn and Angela Gould.

At noon the Phi Lambda sorority, of which Miss Quimby is a member, served a buffet luncheon with the custom at this time of the year, was held in the outdoor theatre. This latter play amply and sympathetically chronicled the adventures of Noah and his family and the Ark load of animals during the flood and the final safe landing at Mount Ararat.

Of particular interest to the Kingston members of the audience was the fact that one of the two students in charge of the complicated system of lighting was Miss Isabella Harrison, daughter of Mrs. Isabella Clarke Harrison, a resident of this city before her marriage. Those from Kingston attending the performance were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar N. Paley, Mr. and Mrs. Goldsworthy, Miss Ethel M. Hull, Miss Henrietta Louisday and Tuesday of this week of Manning, Miss Mary E. In planning this affair, which is considered a high spot in the upper class school life, the Juniors used the boat voyage theme, wherever possible, working it in with the Senior class colors of blue and gold. As the Seniors entered the dining room at 6:30 o'clock they found a blue and gold ship in the center of the table from which floated out on table cloth "waters", life preserver place cards, marked with name of the vessel "S. S. Marygrove" as well as the name of each guest. Each student also found at her place a corsage of lilies of the valley.

When the guests had all gathered in the dining hall, Miss Mary Tierney introduced Miss Ruth Abernathy as the "Miss Blue and White" honorary scholastic societies of the Normal Schools of this state.

Miss Myrtle Thompson of Highland and Miss Ruth Nickerson of Abron street, this city, are representing the New Paltz Normal Chapter of Sigma Pi Sigma at the annual convocation held at Oneonta this weekend. BREATHING.

The confluence of youth, or the restoration of lost youth, is chiefly a matter of proper breathing, according to Dr. E. H. Baker, medical research man of the University of Chicago. He is now touring the world and taking chest measurements of elderly people. Most people, he finds, haven't an adequate air intake, and so don't get proper combustion. We need the oxygen of the air, in suitable quantities, for proper combustion of our fuel. Generally speaking, the more oxygen we inhale, the more energy and the longer life.

"Correct breathing," he says, "can prolong the life of man even to 200 years. People die young because they breathe incorrectly. Science must discover the exact secret of proper breathing. Once this is done, and the information spread the span of human life will show an immediate increase." Dr. Baker will doubtless find much to interest him when he gets to India. Hindus for ages have made a science of breathing, with regard to quality as well as quantity. Every intelligent mother is said to teach it to her child. Hindoo yogis hold that by breathing they control both body and mind. In that, as perhaps in some other things, they are far ahead of us.

ATHLETIC SHOWMANSHIP.

What college athletics need, Ohio State University representatives told the American Physical Association recently, is more showmanship—to pack the stadiums. College stadiums, once built, doubtless have been packed. Especially when they're not paid for. Many colleges have been wishing lately that they had never gone into Roman Coliseum business—but there they are.

So O. S. U. proposes to make bigger spectacles of its athletic events. It will play up track meets as well as football, and will also try to jazz up baseball and other games, with whatever spectacular variations the stadium professors and their boys can think of. There will be new devices tried, experiments with brilliant flood-lighting for parades, drills, and so on.

It all sounds grand. Or maybe we should say it sounds grandstand. Why not horse races and dog races, too? They always draw well. And there are boxing and wrestling. Properly worked out, the old plan of a college supporting athletic sports might be reversed. Maybe sports could support the college. That is, with the stadium once paid for. What will become of the cloistered life once supposed to promote education is another question.

ART LOOKS UP.

An odd fact develops regarding those pictures that were painted by "busted" artists on government relief last winter. Many of them are on view at Washington and elsewhere, and many are so attractive that people are always trying to buy them. But it can't be done. The pictures are the property of the government that paid in some cases as much as $34 a week to have them painted, and the government is not in the business of selling pictures. There is said to be a law against it. They are for public use or nothing. There ought to be some way, though, for the artists to benefit by this demand. The artists could probably paint the same pictures over again, or others as good, and inquiries or orders could be relayed from the art-lovers to the artists. Thus business recovery might reach even art studios. It would be a good thing all round. Artists need to live, and people need art. Moreover, there is probably no better way to get money into circulation than to pay it to artists.

BICYCLE PATHS NEEDED.

Americans traveling in the British Isles in recent years have been surprised at the great number of bicycle brokers used by adults. They are seen not only in country lanes, but on the main highways, and on both quiet village streets and busy London thoroughfares. It is estimated that there are 16,000,000 Britons a year engaged in bicycling. This year the peddlers take advantage of motorists, the authorities point out, by cutting tracks made with and maintained for motor traffic. In order to make them bear a share of the cost of the roads they use, it is proposed to place them under registration and license.

This idea seems to have occurred to several persons in far separated regions simultaneously. It was suggested in an American city recently. Bicyclists probably wouldn't mind paying a license fee if the funds were used to build pleasant bicycle paths apart from the main highways. Many of them probably are not keener than motorists about using the same traffic lanes and suffering the same perils. The modern world needs classified traffic lanes—for buses, for trucks, for private cars, for bicyclists and pedestrians.

THE BUYING SPIRIT.

Though American business is not out of the woods yet, it is probably half way out, and is still going ahead. The most obvious proof of this is the revival of the buying spirit. People who lately "wouldn't accept a bargain if one knocked them down in the street" are beginning, as they become able, to get the things they need. And how many things there are!

An automobile manufacturer says there must be at least a million homes in this country where the carpet on the stairs is worn out. It is the same with furniture, clothing, household conveniences, motor cars and hundreds of other commodities. He says:

It is evident that people are no longer bragging about being extremely close. They are not apologizing about buying a new automobile or new clothes or other things which they are rightfully entitled, but for which they would not spend money before because they didn't have it or thought it wouldn't look right. Many people thought by refusing to make purchases except for the barest necessities, they were being patriotic, whereas they were their country's own worst enemies, as well as their own.

Now, with a new buying spirit in the air, people are helping business and at the same time helping themselves.

TO PRESERVE THE TEETH

Oster, the greatest physician of modern times, said, "that of all the disorders that beset humanity, dental disease is responsible, directly and indirectly, for a larger amount of ill health and unhappiness than any other kind."

Observations show that 95 per cent of all school children have caries (decay), and almost 100 per cent of adults have either pyorrhoea, decayed or dead teeth.

Now your dentist cannot save your teeth any more than your doctor can save your heart or rather protect you from heart disease, if you do not follow the advice he gives you.

Today we find the dentist not only giving advice as to the brushing of the teeth, removing tartar, treating inflamed gums (pyorrhoea), removing the pulp from "suspicious" teeth, and extracting teeth with infected roots, but he also outlines the kind of foods the patient should eat. Thus the dentist is teaching you how to preserve your teeth just as the physician is teaching you how to preserve your health, yet without this advice, there would be more "work" for dentists and doctors.

And the greatest single factor in preserving teeth as discovered by the Drs. Mellany and the Drs. Agnew is vitamin D.

Cod liver oil and some other fish oils are the richest known sources of vitamin D. It is present in fat fish and also in animal fats except that of the pig.

However the average individual does not like the idea of cod liver oil although the new methods of preparing it and presenting it to the public make it much easier to take.

There are however natural foods containing the vitamin D.

The natural foods containing vitamin D with which calcium (lime) and vitamin A are often associated, include egg yolk, milk, suet, butter, and cheese.

Where cereals are used it is advised that milk or cream be added as cereals are not bone builders.

To insure good teeth three things are necessary: (1) brushing of the outside to remove food deposits;

(2) the use of plenty of milk or milk products to insure sufficient lime in the system; (3) chewing of the food well to help the circulation in teeth and gums.

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE
BY WALTER C. BROWN

At the residence of Mrs. George Harper, 1000 Broadway, New York, on Saturday evening, May 12, 1934, the body of a man was found hanging from a tree branch in the rear yard. The body was that of a man, and the cause of death was suicide.

Chapter 22
MORE EVIDENCE

HARPER'S area took in the disappearance of "experts" seen out on the street. They stopped at the liquor store where the dead man had drunk, his fingerprints easily recognized by the spray of gun powder.

He crossed the room to a beautiful antique corner cupboard and selected the glass door. There they were, the matching glasses of the one the dead man had used.

Using his handkerchief as a shield, he picked them out, one by one, and held them against the light. The first four were clean and clear. The fifth brought an exclamation of triumph to his lips. It was not stained or smeared, for the sides were crystal clear, with not a trace of fingerprints, but one drop of water rolled about on the bottom. That glass had been used, dried, and refilled—but it had been used.

He dropped his handkerchief over the small glass as he heard a sound.

One drop rolled about on the bottom.

In the hall, it was Lafferty, bearing in his arms a bundle of clothing, topped by a felt hat. "Here they are, Steve," he cried eagerly, "every last piece—hanging up in Dufresne's wardrobe closet as neat and orderly as you please. Andrews spotted them right away."

"And I'll bet there's not a single thing in any of the pockets," Harper prophesied.

The detective had guessed correctly. Every pocket was turned out and found to be quite empty. The inner baubles bore no initials and the maker's gilt-stamped seal had been worn away until it was undecipherable.

The examination of the clothing further revealed that the labels had been ripped out, as several broken threads merrily testified. Harper, however, did find a marking around the false buttonhole on the left coat lapel which indicated that a fraternal pin or other emblem had been worn there for some time.

The detective whisked away the handkerchief concealing the liquor glass. "I've got my nose down to the right trail at last, Jack. Listen to this—our mysterious visitor was not killed by Hamill. He died by the hand of some person unknown to us. The bullet that killed him lodged in that wall, and stuck there!"

Leaving Officer O'Connell to keep an eye on the crime room and its exhibits, they made their way to the cellar. They turned on all the lights and looked around.

"What did Carlin use for his tests?" Harper asked.

"He filled up a basket with rags and waste and fired into that. We must look for something that would retard a bullet but not offer too much resistance."

They wandered about, augmenting the electric lights with the beam of their flashlight, but the unusual neatness and open order of the cemented cellar held out little promise of success.

Hamill's gun was found on the floor simply could not have made that scar in the wood. The real murderer removed the original bullet and substituted one from Hamill's gun. Hamill was killed by the bullets from the gun found in the dead man's hand, there's no denying, but that gun was then held by other hands.

"Then there was a meeting here between our dead man and another person," Lafferty exclaimed. "He was killed as he sat there at the table. Then Hamill somehow butted into the picture and there was nothing for the murderer to do but add another killing to protect himself from arrest."

"Exactly. And the two dead men facing each other probably suggested the idea. It would be quite easy to wipe the gun clean, press the two victims' hands around the

with the graduation exercises including presentation of diplomas and annual awards at 10 a.m. The entire commencement program will be on eastern standard time.

Fifty-three students make up the Class of 1934. School will remain open after the closing exercises until the Regents' and College Board examinations are over.

ART QUARTER OF
NEW YORK SCENE OF QUEER CRIME

Twice Married Beauty Killed
in Home of Bachelor, Former Playmate.

New York—Greenwich Village has a new exhibit for wide-eyed tourists. This is a modest little cottage (with a very high rent) in MacDougal Alley—the “coolest alley in the world,” where rich and “arty” tenants have converted old stables into exotic studios.

Here two childhood sweethearts were reunited. Here the girl received fatal injuries in a wild struggle after midnight, in which statuettes were overturned and rich tapestries pulled from the walls. The girl's host, a young Wall Street broker, is held charged with her death.

Police radio cars careened with screaming sirens into MacDougal Alley after neighbors had telephoned that “something awful was going on” in the broker's apartment. They found Edna Field Leavitt battered into insensibility, nude, dying. They found Arthur W. Morse, her host, nursing a face streaked by deep scratches, but denying responsibility for the girl's plight.

First Husband Died.

Then, with Mrs. Leavitt's death, it came out. She had lived near Arthur W. Morse in Brookline, Mass., Boston's fashionable suburb, and they had been childhood sweethearts. She married somebody else—David Leavitt, of Omaha.

Her life and Arthur Morse's diverged then. Her marriage created the romantic stir which attaches to the union of a pretty debutante and Junior league and prosperous bachelor. Then Leavitt died.

She married again, this time Charles Byington, a rich New Yorker.

Morse, meanwhile, went to Harvard, graduating in 1923. After that came five years studying banking practice in Vienna, London and Paris. Then Wall Street, and the little bachelor apartment with the restful tang of bohemianism for his leisure hours.

Gets Reno Divorce.

Meantime, Edna led the life of the society matron—even to the Reno divorce which she received from her second husband. Morse was the prosperous and rising stock broker.

Then Edna came to town. Morse heard of her presence. Mystery closed down on the pair at that point. But friends say that Edna Field Leavitt grew weary of the life of a society divorcee. She left her five-year-old child by her first marriage with Mr. and Mrs. William Atkinson, her blue-blooded Brookline (Mass.) grandparents.

She came to New York, reviving an old flair for sketching; she had taken a course, long ago, at the Boston Art museum after graduating from the ultra-exclusive Mount Ida School for Girls. So in New York she entered the free-and-easy Village life with gusto. She registered at the Hotel Albert, in the heart of the arty settlement. She did some posing; in her spare time she sketched.

A Village acquaintance relates that she met Morse after a few days in New York and was frequently with him.

What happened between midnight and 3 a. m. of that fateful morning, no one knows yet for sure.

13 as House Number Was Unlucky for This Family

Tisbury, England.—Attached to a large number plate was a note. It read: “Herewith goes No. 13. For 18 years we have been stricken with the accursed thing.”

The sign was received by the local council, when the number of the house was changed to 115, after being 13 for 13 years.

Its occupant is Mrs. H. Kane, and this is the “luck” she had during that time. Her husband died soon after they moved in. Then her son was invalidated out of the army with shell-shock.

Since then they have had to live on his dole and Mrs. Kane's pension, for he only has done three months' work in the last two and a half years. Once they threw the number plate away, but somebody brought it back.

Ionia, Mich.—The only female “prisoner” in confinement at the Michigan State reformatory here recently escaped from the prison grounds. # HAIL THE PETTICOAT PARADE!

Grandma's Style—And Sometimes It Shows—Returns For Modish Of Today

By RITA FERRIS
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

Paris, (AP)—Grandmother's old-fashioned petticoat is back in fashion for modish moderns.

Some fashionables rustle in to tea with flowered taffeta petticoats under their afternoon frocks. Others fasten across dance floors with lace or ruffled organdy foundations peeping from under summer evening gowns.

Often the petticoat is designed to show, so there can be no doubt it's there. Sometimes it is made of the same color as the frock, though the newest models come in contrasting hues.

Madame Agnes, whose hats top some of the smartest Parisian collections, has designed a frock with a crisp light petticoat showing nearly an inch below the hem. It's of hyacinth blue taffeta and is worn with a simple navy blue wool dress.

Other designers show flowered taffeta petticoats a few inches shorter than the skirt with dark wool street ensembles.

Worth makes some of the most striking evening foundations seen in the petticoat parade. One gown of black taffeta with a decollete edged in a plumed white organdy frill has a dounced white organdy petticoat showing in the front of the skirt. A navy blue taffeta gown with bright blue corn flower cap sleeves is worn with a blue tulle foundation. A white taffeta frock splashed with blue, rose and yellow flowers has a front skirt slashed to reveal a deep blue taffeta petticoat.

Lace and tulle foundations appear with other gowns. Many are trimmed at the hem with knife-pleated frills which give a lacy feminine effect without causing the hem to flare.

The gowns with which they are worn are often designed with skirts trained in the back, and shortened or slit in front to reveal the foundation.

In Grandma's day someone might have whispered slyly, "Your petticoat's showing." Not so today, when many of the fashionable gowns are designed particularly to reveal a bit of petticoat. Taffeta petticoats are being worn under afternoon frocks, with lace or organdy models peeping from under summer evening gowns. The one shown above is lace or sheer black, worn with a smart black satin gown designed by Worth. The frock's deep square decollete is a fashion note in itself—and notice the slender black satin slippers, high at the instep.

Always park your car in a place of preference for wear there is no room. The parking dog is even more common than the road dog. He takes more of his valuable space.

Neighbor: How is that new car you're doing since we bought?

Mrs. Newbridge: I suppose it's all right, but I am a little worried about it. It hasn't laid a single egg yet.

How to tie young:

Always drive fast out of alleys.

Domestic half the road the middle half. Listen on your rights.

Always lock your brakes when skidding. It makes the job more difficult.

Always speed; it shows people you are a man of pep even though an amateur driver.

Drive confidently, just as though there were not eighteen million other cars in service.

Always race with locomotives at crossings. Engineers like it; it breaks the monotony of their jobs.

Always pass cars on hills. It shows you have more power, and you can turn out if you meet a car at the top.

Always pass the car ahead on curves or turns. Don't use your horn, it may upset the other fellow and cause him to turn out too far.

How about the pedestrians? One critic avers that it is a good thing that these new motor car models didn't arrive on the scene until there were no more horses to scare.

The recent purchaser of a second-hand car called to see the previous owner, intent on giving him a piece of his mind.

Purchaser (storming): Look here that car I bought from you is no good at all. When I bought it you said that if it didn't do all you said that it would take it back.

Recent Owner (nodding): Well, I stick to my word. I take back what I said.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS... SOUNDS

By ROBBIE COOPER
HOLLYWOOD — Dancer Lillian Harvey is in the peculiar position of marrying a "comrade" without having fallen from her high place in the master of salary.
In Hollywood the rule is that a star who falls in the last one to accept the unpleasant truth. Lillian proves the rule. She's the exception. "I know I was a fool, a flop," she says frankly. "There'd be no point in hiding myself. It isn't pleasant to be drawing a salary and to feel you're not worth it—or that you haven't been worth it."

'Serenade' Will Tell

Her next picture, "Serenade," she expects will "tell the tale." She is going to make good in it—and if I have to break my neck to do it I'm willing," she says pluckily—or she is going home to Europe to get married and rear a family. Her contract calls for three pictures after "Serenade," but unless that film is exceptionally good she doesn't expect to make the others.

At any rate, she will visit her home in the south of France after this picture, and while gone she may be married to Willy Fritsch, her German actor-fiance. Marriage at that time depends on arranging their marital affairs so that they can be together, either here or abroad. Marriages in neither position, says Lillian, if you can't be with your husband.

But marrying Willy Fritsch and having babies, are definitely in her plans.

Ballyhoo Headlines

Kim Harvey, subject of extensive ballyhoo when she arrived a year ago fresh from her triumph in "Canary Dancer," seems unshattered by what she calls her "failure" in Hollywood. Perhaps she says, the ballyhoo provided too great a handicap. Especially unfortunate, she considers, was the exploitation of the studio hang-up that was her surprise gift from Fox on her arrival. She had nothing to do with it, and it's very beautiful, but—

"People who work hard to scrape together money for a movie can't be expected to warm up to a girl who has a lamp trimmed in ermine tails in her dressing room. I hate that lamp"—and she glares at it. "I'm going to burn it some day!"

Wilhel, however, the vivacious Lillian—a tiny, blue-eyed blonde who worked herself to a shadow making three pictures without a day of rest—retains an ebullient sense of humor.

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

It's Smart To Be Pretty

New York—Just to console you for missing your train, shirts when shortened are expected to supply a note of interest, as for instance in the case of the doll silhouette illustrated.

Believing that it is expecting too much of women to be regal during the "heated term," designers are seeing what can be done to dance dresses so that trains may be lopped off without the dress losing that delightful fru-fru look that all the goings on below the knee has accustomed us to. The doll silhouette is most attractive when done in crisp materials. Crin lace, stiffened chiffon, starched lace, taffeta and so on. It has its point, don't you think? What could be more effective for a bevy of bridesmaids?

And speaking of bridesmaids and summer festivities, have you seen the new flower jewelry? Can't you imagine how charming a bracelet of real or artificial flowers might be worn with such a frock? And with flowers in the hair and maybe at the neck? The flower bandeau, garlands, or some flat flower usually is very well thought of. Sometimes the flowers are lacquered; the lacquered wild flower seems to be a great favorite for many purposes. Then there are violets. Wouldn't you know there would be? Don't they belong in the first of the century fashions which we are now so intently reviving?

And so this seems as good a time as any to warn you that the shadow of the parasol is cast on the wall. That too was inevitable in fashion's present backward-on-backward mood. Yet there never seemed a time when parasols were less necessary, for were hats ever in a more protective, and for that matter provocative mood?

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Knotty tweeds are in line for travel coatings and suitings. Importers report favorably on these in lively flecked color mixtures and crisp hair textures. The knotted tweeds are called "rope tweeds."

Plaided coats with plain dresses proved a favorite in linen ensembles worn at the Riviera.

The fancy plique coat collar at the bottom of the circle has released points flaring out in a beauty line, while the back of the neckline is kept with folded-in points. The buttons are pearl.

For evening the same collar with a puffy border and a large crushed flower at the front is done in tanks with chiffon organdy.

Linen Goes Dancing

Linen evening dresses will be seen there is the linen game with content again in printed varieties this summer. silk that is available in less bold designs than earlier when Allergies stripes and plaids were the thing, and lively stripes and plaids again. Embroidery further diversifies the major importance. In high style pattern interest.

Young Republicans Approve Program Told in Rome Message Disarmament View

Inquiry In Death Of Mrs. Conroy

New York, May 19 (AP)—The stock market today experienced one of the quietest sessions in nearly two years and mildly mixed prices ruled in the different trading. There was some scattered weak and 1,000 trading but most offerings were absorbed without difficulty. The close was irregular. Transfers were only 600 and shares the smallest since July 5, 1932.

The presidents' move for international action aimed at the supervision and control of the traffic in arms apparently did not tax the financial district by surprise. Shares of DuPont dropped a point or so, but increased and other issues that might be classed as "war cables" seemingly were not particularly perturbed.

Among the steeper issues were U. S. Rubber, Case, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, American Can, Standard Oil of New Jersey and United Aircraft. Only slight changes were shown by U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Western Union, General Motors, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, San Fran, Union Pacific and others.

Some slackening in the steel industry was reported, although a moderate recession from the peak production level had been anticipated. At the same time news ticker reports indicated that the drop in automobile sales may have been halted, with some betterment seen in the activities of a few leading companies.

Speculative circles were awaiting the President's message on silver which is expected to be delivered to Congress Monday. In some quarters it was believed the plan for silver legislation had distinctly inflationary aspects and that, with the treasury issuing certificates on the basis of $1.29 an ounce for the metal, it would be equivalent to the use of the golf profit resulting from dollar devaluation.

Many Years in Danger
A world record is claimed for a woman who voluntarily passed away years in a dungeon. When she returned to the light, her eyes were useless, and she had been blanched white by the confinement.

Kingston: "Sadie McKee," Vina Delmar, the young lady who knows how to create best selling novels, is responsible for this talking picture that finds Joan Crawford in the starring role. Miss Delmar's heroines are almost always of the underdog variety and Sadie McKee follows in the best tradition. Poor, trampled upon, preyed upon by men, Sadie McKee is just one of thousands of girls until she climbs the ladder to eminence and orchids. She does this, as you may suspect, through the aid, generosity and adoration of men. Three men enter her life and each leave their mark. In the end she discovers that the one she hated at first is really the big moment in her life. Miss Crawford makes a fine Sadie McKee and seems to enjoy her part. Gene Raymond, Edward Arnold and Franchot Tone are also in the cast.

Orpheum: "Sleepers Ease" and "16 Fathoms Deep". The first feature is unusual because of the plot which is nicely tangled up most of the time. It's all about a girl trying to be bad because the baby of her friend is hungry. The action is hard to follow and the cast tries to do its best in difficult assignments. Wynne Gibson and Preston Foster head the cast. "16 Fathoms Deep" is one of those water dramas with Sally O'Neil and Creighton Chaney.

Broadway: "Laughing Boy". The Pulitzer prize winning novel is here translated to the screen by the director of "White Shadows in the South Seas", "Trader Horn", "Tarzan" and other hit pictures. It is the story of a primitive boy and girl brought up in the west, guided by their emotions and the tribal traditions behind them. The native girl goes to civilization and learns the tricks of the white man. When she returns, she has changed in dress and manner. Ramon Novarro, in the starring role, gives the most natural and capable performance of his career and Lupe Velez is unusually good as the wilful little native girl. Dramatic and moving Subject: "A Fellowship That Endures."

Legion Depends on Karolak-Poster Match To Draw Big Attendance

Only three days remain before the American Legion tournament opens at the National Guard Armory for the second time this summer. The fund of Kingstone Post will be used to help the Legion to gain anything from the proceeds of a professional boxer.

Next Tuesday, May 22, will be the Kingstone Poster and Eddie Karolak fight. It is expected to bring in a substantial sum and money for the Indians they have been training in a snakes way.

Both heavyweight have big names here. Porter is challenging the champion, Mattan. Primo Carnera's sparring partner, in a 16 rounder, April 21, and Karolak comes in a knockout over the Jim Friedman, West Point negro, and former champion of the New York State National Guard, on the same date.

Poster Favored

Poster, a fast, hard-punching fighter who bears down on his man every minute, seems favored to upset Karolak. He never let up slugging away at Chester Mattan and last night 208 pound husky won to a frazzle at the last gong. In the eighth and ninth Lou had his bigger rival on the verge of a knockout, apparently, but lacked the dynamite to put him away.

The 190 pounder came here from Pottsville, Pa., with a brilliant record, including victories over Javy Slager, Eddie Haughton, Dick Madden, Eddie Mader, Tom Jackson, Jack McCoy, Bob Martin and Jack Shaw. Shaw was a sparring mate for Max Schmeling when he trained at Greenhill Lodge.

Poster's victory over Mattan earned him a place on the Loukoum-Newell card in Madison Square Garden, May 4, and he fought six round draw with Eddie Laughton. The meeting was the third between the two, Poster having won the last one, too.

Karolak Wins in Garden

Eddie Karolak, 197 pounder from Upstate, by defeating Freeman gained recognition from the Garden authorities and was given a place on the New York card. He fought George Marshall, 175, of Chestnut Hill, and stopped him in one round. Karolak is the first man that ever defeated Freeman in Kingston. Bill won the championship of the National Guard twice here and thought his old charm would help him over the Albany slugger. But he was wrong, taking one of the worst pastings ever handed out around these parts. Referee Bill Singer stopped the brawl in the fifth round. He ordered the giant negro to his corner after two minutes and 20 seconds. Bill was weak and suffering from a severe cut under his right eye.

In the third round Karolak demonstrated his punching ability. He dropped Freeman with a left to the jaw. Timer Mort Finch counted to seven, then sounded the gong, ending the round and saving Big Bill from a knockout.

The fourth saw the batters fight it out on about even terms, but the fifth brought Freeman to his downfall.

Eddie's stand against Freeman impressed Matchmaker Doc Studer so much that he immediately decided to match him with Poster at some time. So Tuesday is the night for the duel. Fans seem anxious to find out just how good Studer's judgment in concerning the kind of fight these two will make, which indicates a crowded house.

Look For Kayo

Since losing to Karolak, Freeman has been training diligently for a comeback in the local ring. He will get his chance against Jack Sullivan of Marlborough in a six rounder. Wether Bill can make the grade against the former champion of the Amateur Federation of Sports Clubs remains to be seen. Both men are hard punchers, or at least were when they campaigned more often several years back, and many look for a knockout finish in this brawl.

The return of Nick Zinno is interesting many and the Italian welter is expected to be cheered by a large number of admirers when he takes off his robe to swap hooks and jabs with Freddie Lewis of New York.

Charlie Smith of Hurley, who fought in the amateurs here, will make his professional debut against Vic Nelsen of Denmark. Smith is a hard hitter and may wash up Nelsen like Eddie Cleary did when he fought him here.

Gillette Popular

The other bout on the card will bring together Al Gillette, who scored a technical over Freddie Raymond at the last show, and Al Ragona, a flashy New York battler. Gillette is one of the cleverest little fellows that ever campaigned in the local ring and judging from the hand he got before, there will be a lot of roosters urging him on Tuesday.

Those desiring to reserve seats:

Veteran Will Win Open, Says Sarazen

By New York May 19 (P)—You can count on Eddie Sarazen and the rest of the National Open golfers will be won by the golfers.

Johnny Goodman was, says Sarazen, a star of that, and with his driving qualities he looks to win. Eddie, while British open champion, or Lee Jeffer, to top the crowd.

Now he's playing the tournament this year on a real honest-to-goodness golf course. Sarazen said: "Not only is Merion a good, tough golf course but the greens are the most fastidious kind, not like the hasty work of those youngsters have been brought up on."

"Wise Merion is so suited to the game of our older fellows that even the likes of Walter Hagen might win the championship there," he declared. "You can bet your last dime, if you have one left, that one of the dimmers will come through."

Sarazen, who first won the open in 1922 and repeated ten years later, dismissed Paul Runyan, whose stroke production netted $7,000 last winter, with two sentences:

"Runyan is a good golfer, but he's too much of a lightweight. I don't think he's strong enough to stand up for four fast rounds."

Gone is working out for the 1934 title joust over the links of the Brooklyn Country Club in Bridgeport, Conn., where he first started to tote bags more than fifteen years ago. He expects to move in on the Merion Club, near Philadelphia, next week.

Jack Not Certain Baer Will Be Champ

New York, May 19 (P)—Though he's much more vitally interested right now in the fact that he will be a daddy in a few months, Jack Dempsey still can find time to talk a good fight.

Arriving in town with Mrs. Dempsey, the former Hannah Williams, Jack surprised boxing writers by saying he was by no means certain his California protege, Max Baer, would win the heavyweight championship from Primo Carnera when they meet June 14.

"If Max trains, gets in real shape, fights from a crouch and pumps right hands into Carnera's body, he'll win," Dempsey said. "But if he doesn't get in top condition, and then stands up and tries to box Primo, he'll get his block knocked off."

Dempsey will give Baer the once-over at Asbury Park this week-end but not for long.

"Right now the only thing we're thinking about," he said, "is the baby. It'll be in July."

Slattery in Comeback As Preliminary Boxer

Buffalo, N. Y., May 19 (P)—Hall not so many years ago as one of the nation's first class fighting men, Jimmy Slattery, former light heavyweight champion, comes back to the ring next Monday night as a preliminary boy.

The former champion starts his comeback in a six round preliminary against Walter Kugel, an unknown Polish heavy.

Although a far cry from the fighting youngster who scored 42 knockouts in eight years before dropping his title to Maxie Rosenbloom in 1929, "Slats" has trained faithfully for two months for the bout and outwardly looks little different from his old self.

Paul "Red" Carr, his manager, promises, if Slattery does not win Monday he never again will enter the ring.

Hemsley Leads American Hitters, Leslie Shows Nationals the Way

New York, May 19 (P)—Rolle—who was second, topped far down Hemsley, erstwhile Cup and Plate's "playboy" and now the serious and business-like backstop for Roger St. Louis Browns, swung the mightiest bat in the major leagues during the past week, while the big ten of each division underwent another revision in standings.

24 Ahead of Gehrig.

Hemsley moved into the American League lead with a .424 average derived from 26 hits out of 61 times at bat. That put him 24 percentage points of Lou Gehrig, slugging Yankees first rocker, and 52 points in front of Sam Leslie, Brooklyn first baseman, who led the National League for the week which ended yesterday.

Car. Reynolds of the Red Sox, who led the American League last week, and Joe Vosmik of Cleveland, Collie, St. Louis, 27, 24, 24, 24, 24.

Sealed Verdict in Horse Case Monday

Testimony Concluded in Action for Damages to Horse—Expert Grand Jury Will Report to Judge Staley Next Week.

Testimony was concluded Friday in the action brought in supreme court by Florence H. Grimes against the New York Telephone Company. Plaintiff seeks damages for injuries to a valuable horse which it is alleged was injured when it became tangled up in telephone wires while employees of the company were straining wires over the Grimes padock on Harley avenue. She alleged that the manner of straining the wires was such as to contribute negligence. A sealed verdict will be returned Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock when court adjourned.

It is expected that the grand jury will report to Judge Staley next week. District Attorney Leon B. Murray has had a considerable amount of business to present to the grand jury as this is the last grand jury to be convened until next fall.

Interesting Reports At Program Planning

would undoubtedly have been much greater. A year ago, Dr. Holomio and Dr. Weber of the Hospital went to the schools of Kingston and 300 children have been tested with the tuberculin. Sixty-eight children were found to be tuberculous. If there is a positive reaction there will be evidence of it by a slightly reddened skin at the end of forty-eight hours, and it is known that that child has been in contact with some one who has tuberculosis. There were three positive reactions to the test and as a result 30 people were especially examined at the TH Hospital by means of sputum or X-ray, through those children. In fact every person in the family of an active case is examined. Of the 30 cases, 17 had tuberculosis, but were healed, but there were still 13 active cases.

Miss Murphy asked how the Home Bureau could help in this work of finding Ulster county of tuberculosis and answered her own question by telling the women that they could help amazingly by persuading and educating the people in the rural districts to allow their children to have the tuberculin test and to realize what a guarantee of future health it will be.

The testing in the Kingston High School and the Grade Schools has been completed and there has already been the same testing in the Saugerties High School and the schools of Marlborough and Lomontville. Next week, Dr. Weber and Miss Murphy are to go to New Paltz where the pupils of the Normal School, the high and the grade schools will receive the tuberculin testing.

Miss Murphy asked the women present not only to persuade such of their neighbors as might object to their children having the TB test that it was the only right thing to do, since this test will not be so generally made again very soon, but to help out in the plan of bringing children together within single townships for the test. This curtailing of the time that would be necessary for both doctor and nurse to visit every school would be one of the most valuable aids that could be given. If the women could help in transporting or having transported the children from some of the schools to a centralized school for the test it would be of great value in the fight against tuberculosis.

Tells of Camp Happyland Miss Murphy reminded those present of the splendid effect of Camp Happyland upon health conditions among children of the county and stated that the Ulster County Tuberculosis Committee would again operate this health-giving camp which has been made possible each year by the sale of Christmas Seals. This camp to build up undernourished children is not just for the children of Kingston, but for undernourished children from any community in Ulster county. Anyone knowing of such children should communicate with Miss Murphy at her office, No. 74 John street, telephone 1706-W. In closing, Miss Murphy reminded the Home Bureau members that the state and county are spending a large amount of money to have our cattle tuberculin tested as a tuberculosis prevention measure and asked that we show at least as much interest in the children of the county as in its cattle, by having them given the similar test in order that we may have healthy men and women and that we may do our part to eradicate this terrible scourge.

History of the Home Bureau.

Miss Murphy's talk made a deep impression upon the women of the Home Bureau and Miss Nance, the County Manager, so that practically what was done afterward was in a way "led up" to the thought of doing all possible "to redeem the reputation of Kingston as a healthy place to live," as Mrs. John P. Searing, honorary president, said. Mrs. Searing was introduced by Mrs. Lewis, and asked to give a history of the Home Bureau in Ulster county. She started her talk by urging the women to get out for the first meeting in their community when Dr. Holcomb and Miss Murphy visited them in order that they might do all possible, and as soon as possible, to get rid of tuberculosis for the future of the children and grandchildren of today. Mrs. Searing did interest her hearers in the past of the Home Bureau, starting in the World War days with the Food Commission, which was so splendidly carried out by Mr. Hoover. She recalled that at this time there were 62 units in Ulster county instead of the 20 of today, a much more efficient arrangement. The present Home Bureau was shown to be greatly indebted to the charitable women of the Granges and in fact all rural women for their real under the direction of the Agricultural College of the State College at Cornell. But Mrs. Searing wisely warned her hearers that after all it was their money—the money of the taxpayers—that was paying the Federal government, the State, for the training of workers. All present were being guided in their Home Bureau work by paid workers and trained workers. This offers an academic point of view which is really what is needed in the various communities. Every community also has the right to its chance to rid itself of tuberculosis by having the children of the schools tuberculin tested. It is their right to ask for all possible aid.

As for "Civics" Mrs. Searing counted genuine neighborliness as one of the best helps to right civic conditions in any community.

Former State President Talks

Another speaker who is always given a most cordial greeting at Home Bureau gatherings was Mrs. Edward Young, former president of the N. Y. State Federation of Home Bureaus and a member of the Association of County Women of the World. Mrs. Young said she was greatly interested in the health improvement plans of the Home Bureau and especially in the re-deciding of the reputation of Ulster county from its present place almost at the end of the list as having nearly the highest death rate from tuberculosis in the state. She considered the testing of school children the best step yet taken in preventing tuberculosis which has and does cost the county such an astounding price in deaths and remedial measures. She had at one time been to a hearing in Albany attended by the Grocers' Association of New York. The question of doing away with the sale of milk in bulk and replacing such procedure by selling bottled milk was under consideration. Long before the passage of the law in favor of bottled milk had been heard of in every community public opinion had demanded such action and secured it. So in the matter of having the tuberculin test for our school children, Mrs. Young felt that public opinion of those about us and of ourselves on the minds of others, would accomplish more than any law.

Mrs. Young said that there were three points being stressed by the Federation of Home Bureaus of the state on their present program: legislation, marketing and international work.

Mrs. Young told how the women of various organizations had sensed the need of a women's forum through which the women of the state might learn much more about the legislative proceedings in New York state. There is now such a forum known as The Women's Joint Legislative Forum held in Albany on Tuesday mornings at the capitol from 10 to 12 o'clock.

One of the highly valuable outgrowths of this forum is the "clip sheet service," prepared and sent out by Mrs. F. S. Greene, the secretary, to those who care to subscribe for the service by paying a very nominal sum a year to cover postage.

Mrs. Young read many items of interest from the last clip sheet and many more of even greater interest from the covering of the year's legislative action or inaction as found on two sheets which Mrs. Greene titled "Post Mortem 1934."

In speaking about the "marketing point," Mrs. Young said that one of the most important features of this department was the raising of the standards of all marketable articles and keeping it up to that of the College of Home Economics.

She told of the success of women in making marketing business and said that women's market at the coming state fair would not be transferred to the Woman's Building but would remain in its old and advantageous place near the entrance.

Mrs. Young also told most interestingly of the Association of County Women of the World, which is doing such genuine peace teaching as well as other teaching to its members. She spoke of the International work of the Association in Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark; of the monthly meetings in London, the crossway of the world, and especially of the friendly relations established with the country women of Japan and other countries, where real friendships are the best possible efforts against war.

Favorably Impressed

The last speaker of the afternoon was Miss Caroline Morton, Assistant State Leader from the State College of Economics, who, together with Miss Nance had been guiding the program planning of the meeting throughout the afternoon. She did not make a speech but she did sum up the day's work, by saying that she was most favorably impressed with the way in which the various
